ORIOLE PROJECT
Who is using? Where? Why?

- 36 cards = aid to trigger discussion with teachers/learners
- A reusable resource within ORIOLE’s ‘shop’
- Use of open licensed images from Flickr (with attribution)
- Technical, Quality & Motivation categories (Pegler, OER10)
- Design influence...?
- Here is the Why set
How are they using?

Three types of answer:
- Technically
- Pedagogically
- Business model

are inter-connected ... but we can over-focus on tech.

These cards focus on the tech problems and promises of reuse
Not just using but choosing?

- Initially we talked of ‘critical mass’
- We have ‘mass’, unequal in parts
- How do users locate the most appropriate option?
- These cards focus on quality - in the ‘fit for purpose’ sense
Survey: The research focus

At orioleproject.blogspot.com we are trying to answer:

- Are sharers and users the same people?
- Is the ‘transaction cost’ different across different groups?
- Is distance learning in a (reuse) category of its own?
- Do pro-OER people reuse differently than others?
- What do people say motivates them to reuse?
- Comparing with CD-LOR – has reuse changed?
- Is there willingness to share work in progress?
- What do people mean when they use the term OER?
- Is it possible to get these answers in a survey?

Please, please, PLEASE do the survey
- Its open 5-26 May 2011, spread the word
- Results will be shared + you could help a charity
So where is the user? Who is it?
