All about Eve: Evolutionary anatomy of a literary translation from first draft to published product through a feminist lens

How to cite:
Spicer, Barbara (2020). All about Eve: Evolutionary anatomy of a literary translation from first draft to published product through a feminist lens. The Open University.

For guidance on citations see FAQs.

https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by/4.0/

Version: Poster

oro.open.ac.uk
ALL ABOUT EVE

Evolutionary anatomy of a literary translation: FROM FIRST DRAFT TO PUBLISHED PRODUCT THROUGH A feminist LENS.

In the beginning...

... then...

I talk aloud to hear the voice...

NOW!

it's more than just words!

visible

the process is complex and collaborative

EVE (2020)

litersary translators

equal creative
cow-author

My translation process research aims!

BARBARA SPICER (WELS)

Supervisors:
- Dr. Séverine Hubscher-Davidson
- Dr. Emilia Wilton-Godberfforde

EVE (1970)

to author

literary translation

process

equal

creative
cow-author

process

FROM THE CO-CONSTRUCTION OF LITERARY TRANSLATION TO CULTURAL AND GENDER STUDIES

EVE (Garden of Eden) from Adam

derivative

final

product

research

from 'original'

(Any questions?)

Tweet me!

@bornlinguist

#namethetranslator